REPORT OF LIEUT. GWIN.

U. S. GONDOAT TYLOR,
PITTSHURG, TENN, April 8, 1862

Sir: I bave the honor to inform you that the enemy attacked our lines oe our left, the moreing of the 6th, at 636 o'clock, and by his overwhelming numbers forced our men to fall beck in some confusion. At 9:25, finding that the rehels were still driving our left wing back, I steamed up to a point oce mile above Pitishnrg, taking a good position to appoint our troops. At 10% the Lixington, Lieut. Com. Shirk, Jised me, having come ap from Crump's Leeding. After a short time she retureed, for the purpose of enpporting the command of General Wallace, which occupied that point.

We have a considered to the company of the command of General Wallace, which occupied that point. Not having received any instructions from the commanding general ie regard to the service to be reedered by the gunboate, I awaited them patiently, although for an hone or more shot and shell were falling all around us. Feeling that, coeld some system of communication he established, the Tylor could be of great advantage to our laft wheg, at 1:25 P. M. I seet an officer, requesting that I might be allowed to work or the onr left wieg at 1:25 P. M. I seet an officer, requesting that I might be allowed to upon on the woods in the direction of the hatteries and ad vancing forces of the rebele. Gen. Hirlbut, who commanded on our left, sent me would to do so, giving me directions how to fire, that I might do it with no damage to ser troops, expressing himself greteful for this offer of sepport, and eaying that, without reieforcemente, he would not be able to melintain the position he then eccupied for an hour. Therefore, at 2:50 o'clock, I opeced fire in the liee directed, with good effect, silencing their hatteries on our left.

At 8:50 o'clock I ceased firing, end, dropping dewn opposite the landing at Pittsburg, eest Mr. Peters, gunner, on shore to communicate with Gen. Graet for ferther iestructions. His respoese was to use my owe jadgment in the matter.

At 4 P. M., the Lexiegton, Lieutenaet commaeding Shirk, having arrived from Crump's Landing, the Tylor, in company with the Lexiegtoe, tack positioe three quarters of a mile above Pitteburg, and epunda heavy fire in the direction or the rebei batteries on their right, the missiles of which were falling all around us. We silenced them in thirty-five misutee.

At 5:35, the rebels having succeeded ie galelog a position on the left of our liee, an eighth of a mile above the landing at Pittsburg, and half a pile from the river, both vessele opened a heavy and well directed fire on them, aed, in a short time, ie con juze ion with our artillery on shore, succeeded in eilencieg their artillery, driving them

At 7, I received a communication from General Grant, which prevented the gunboats from taking an active part during the rest of the day.

Lientenant Commanding Shirk deserves the greetest praise for the efficient manuer in which the battery of the Lexington was served.

At 5:35 P. M. the enemy were forced to retreat in baste, having contested every iech of groend with great stubornness throughout the entire day.

The efficere and men of the vessel displayed their usual gallantry and enthusiasm dering the entire day and night. Your "old wooden boats," I feel confident, reedered luvainable service on the 6th inelant to the lasd forces. UNITED STATES GUNDO AF LEXINGTON, PITISHORG, Tenn, April 8, 1862.

Sir: On the morning of the 5th instant, while lyling at "Crump'e Landing," I beard savera cannoneding in the direction of Pit'sburg. I got under way, and etood up the river to communicate with Licetanest Commending Chain, of the Tay with Licetenant Commanding Gwin, of the Ty-ior. Upon my reaching this place, I found that an attack had been made upon our army by the she's in force. I returned to Cramp's Lending, to support the division nuder command of Gon.
Lew. Wallace, when I found that hie division had proceeded to join the mein force, beck of Pitts burg Landing. I then ete-med back to this place, and no instructions reaching the gunbcats from the commanding general on shore, we were forced to remain loactiva hearers of the desperate fight until the left wing of our forces, having been freed back and completely turned, and tha rebels getting so near the river that the missiles from 7th, I relieved the Tylor, Lieutenant Commanw Gwin, in a position immediately above the Laosieg, and fired, nntill daylight, a shell every een minutes into the enemy's camp.

Yesterday, at daylight, the fight commenced and Green streets. resterday, at daylight, the fight commenced bet-sen the two parties on shore, and contisued until 5 o'cleck, P, M, when the enemy left in a harried retreat. The gueboats occupying a position on tha left of our lines, not being allowed to fire, spent the morning and a part of the afternoon in acts of mercy, picking up the wounded who had found their way to the river, and convexing them to the ho-pital boate.

I must eav that the gallantry and good conduct of the officers and men whom I had the honor to command, as displayed upon this occasion, and oftan hefore, are beyond ail praise.

Washington, April 23.

A Republican caucus was held to night at the Cepital. About fifty members were precent Colfax in the chair, and McPherson Secretary A general debate occurred on the confiscation bill, in which Stevens, Blair, Covede, Illekman, Oliver, and others participated. The discussion was somewhat of the character of that which has recently taken place in the Honse. The esces of the caucus so-med to be in favor of a discrimina-tion against the leading rebels in the confiscation of all kinds of property. It was unanimously agreed to refer all the bills pending in the Housa to a select committee of seven members, as moved to-day my R presentative Olin.

ENDELL PHILLIPS AS A MAN OF VERAidell Phillips as a scholar, as an orator, abolitionist, and as a traitor, but he is ally great in one other character in which the country have a right to know who was reink ho has not yet been recognized us inctly and widely as he deserves. He is as sponsible for the lack of vigilance which occaat a liar as he is a scholar or an orator or politionist or a traitor.

y way of showing how immense he this partially nnnoticed character we call attention to two or three passages his recent speech in Boston on his return n the West. For some reason or aner he has taken a terrible shine to Secretary nton, whom he holds up in this speech as tituting alone the entire Cabinet, holding at the same time the Secretary of State and Secretary of the Treasury by name as innificant old fogics whom the march of events not only distanced but left out of sight. the former of these two Secretaries, he says: there was a man once Secretary of State, and told Mr. Dayton io Paris, nigh a year sgo, at this convulsion would ceare without chang g the statue of a single individual, either in the ritories or the Statas. Fiftsee hundrodslaves, ed by a two thirds vote of Congress, and that the asseat of the President, ask lo-day where that Secretary of State? The nation has drifted far that he has become invisible.

Now, this is simply a piece of downright ndacity. Here is what the Secretary of te did say to Mr. Dayton:

Moral and physical canses have determined insuchly the character of each one of the Ferritose over which the dispute has arisen, and both arties after the election harmoniously agreed on it the federal laws required for their organization. The Territoies will remain he all respects to same, whether the revolution shall succeed or all fail. The condition of slavery in the several tates will remain just the same whether it sucted or fail. There is not even a pretext for for the rights of the States, and the condi ministration, whether the rovolution shall sucand or whether it shall fail. In the ons (a e, the lates would be federally connected with the new neaderacy; in the other, they would, as now, a members of the Ualted States; but their contitutions and laws, customs, habits, sad institutions in either case will remain the same.

It is hardly necessary to add to this incontechle statement the further fact that the new

The case, however, ould not he fully presented if I were to onit to say that any soch effort on his part would he neonstitution and his uctions in that irrection would he prevented by the judicial aubrity, even though they were a sented to by Congress and the people.

This just and noble statement is to day the

This just and noble statement is to-day the hart of the Administration. The clap-trap whole country by an overflrow. We now f Phillips is nothing more or less than delibrate lying. Of the Secretary of the Treasary, Phillips mediately adds: There was another man in the Cabinet—the Secretary of the Treasury—responsible, he and as State, for fastening that indelible mark open is, Gen. amoned to Washington, Here is another piece of downright mendaity. The President, in his last annual message delivered only four months ago, said : With the retirement of Geoeral Scott came the executive duty of appointing, in histead, a general-in chief of the urmy. It is a fortuate circum stace that neither in conroll nor country was there, so far as I know, any differ hle judgment in favor of General McClellan for the prestion; and in this the nation seemed to give a manimous concurrence. The designation of General McClellan is, therefore, in coasiderable degree, the selection of the country, as well as of the Executive; and hence there is hetter reason to hope there will be given him the confidence and cordial support thus, by fair implication, promised, and without which he cannot, with so full efficiency, serve the country.

Of course Wendell Phillips made his above uoted assertion concerning Gcn. McClellan with the full knowledge of this declaration o gence in the nation could be ignorant of the eclaration. Wendell Phillips at any rate could not be. His assertion is nothing short of a cold-blooded falsehood.

We will notice one other passage of this lying speech. Referring to the President, Pail-

State Sena ors and Representatives, when, at the announcement of his message, he sommoned them to his presence—"Gentlemen, don't talk to me about slavery. You love i'; I hate it. You mean it shall live; I mean it shall die!" | Pro-

In such a crisis of public affairs the country has need of every soldier, and we know that Col. Bruce will chafe like a war-horse restrained from a charge should another hattle ensue while he is unable to participate in its dangers and share the giories of its victory.

HALLECK AND McCLELLAN. -The New York Journal of Commercs has good authority for saying that a letter has been written by General Halleck to a member of his family in that city, in which, with a soldier's anxiety for the giving of honor to whom honor is due, he ascribes the credit of the entire plan of movements at the West, and the successful combinations which have resulted in the repossession, by the Union, of Missouri, Kentucky, and Tennessee, to Major-General McClellan. This handsome acknowledgement is c editable to both the distinguished Generals concerned. General Halleck takee nothing from his ewn title to the grntitude of the people by such n statement. In all the qualifies constituting a great militery leader he has yo superior. Evensyller, Inn., April 10, 1862

Col. C. D. Peanebaker, 2th Kentucky Volunteers:

The condition of my hashih and the advice of my physician compels me, very much against my f.clings, to resign the office of First Lieutenant of Company E, of our regiment. If my health would admit, it would be the proudest legacy that I could leave my family, that I aided in putting down this untoly reheliton. But I must yield to what I cannot control. With the best wishes for you and ell under your command, I remein, very respectfully, your obe-dient servant.
